Superintendent of the Year Award : Entry # 2671

Eric Feldhusen is an exemplary director of Agronomy. His dedication to his field is unmatched. Eric is organized and meticulous, whether that be regarding managing his team, budget or agronomic needs out on course.

His work on the course has allowed our seasons to continue well into the winter months without irreparable damage. Along with his strategic implementation, Eric is a leader in all forms. He coaches his team to make swift and smart decisions, while also communicating with other departments to ensure safe and timely play on course.

During the Portland Open, Eric and his team go above and beyond, pulling daily doubles to keep the course in PGA tour level shape. This requires them to be here before the sun rises, and back again before the sun sets. The team works 7 days a week, 10-15 hours a day during the Portland open. This is no easy task, and they make it look easy.

While this last year provided quite a bit of unexpected challenges – an unfortunate pandemic and the dismissal of 75% of his team, Eric has been able to showcase what he is all about on course. Within the last year, Eric and his team have completed a multitude of projects that have improved and continue to improve all 36 holes at Pumpkin Ridge. Some of these projects are:

- Fixing the drainage on hole 18 at Witch Hollow
- 12 Tee Box (Laser level and Re-Sod)
- 1 Green Expansion
- 3 Green Expansion
- Bunker Renovations

I ask that you please consider Eric for Superintendent of the year, as he is phenomenal at his job and will only continue to demonstrate excellence and pass his knowledge onto hopeful superintendents to-be.
